Manager's Commentary

(As of 31 July 2021)

SMART 50 registered positive returns over the month of July. Both equities and fixed income contributed positively to absolute performance. Equity return contributions were led by strong performances in the developed markets. Our tactical position in US REITs added value, although Energy and Banks detracted as these sectors were weaker this month. Fixed Income exposures were positive, with all underlying strategies delivering gains.

The Fund underperformed the reference benchmark with both asset allocation and security selection detracting from relative performance. On asset allocation, an underweight in fixed income and a preference for Europe equities were positive from a relative perspective, but this was offset by a tactical overweight in Asia equities. Underperformance in the underlying Global Equity Alpha and US Equity strategies due to negative selections mainly in Healthcare and Industrials weighed on relative returns.
